

R&D FORMULATION CHEMIST

Job description

The R&D Chemist is responsible for the development and creation of new personal care and cosmetic formulations. Initial work involves producing lab samples / mixtures for pre-developed formulas and perform task ranging from revision adjustment, color matching and texture. Candidate will then transition to developing their own formula (custom formulation).

Duties:

- Color matching and knowledge of color measurement
- Develop new products to customer and regulatory requirements.
- Knowledge of dispersing equipment and able to assist in scale-ups.
- Drive research in search for opportunities to grow the business.
- Recommend improvements to current formulations and update accordingly.
- Production troubleshooting
- Ability to identify and troubleshoot problems at customers.
- Introduce new products to customers.
- Ability to understand regulatory monographs and standards.
- Establish appropriate testing strategy to ensure specification is met.
- Provide technical leadership to product development.
- Develop and troubleshoot the stability testing methods for products.
- Prepare and approve Master Batch Record
- Prepare and maintain accurate technical data and required documentation.

Requirements:

- Bachelor's Degree in Science, Chemistry
- Detail oriented
- Problem solving skills.
- Experience in product development - Color Matching skills is a major consideration.
- Ability to interact and work with team members.
- Ability to communicate knowledge to team.
- Computer skills in a variety of software

Salary DOE

Job Type: Full-time

SKINCARE

CBD

OTC

DEVELOPMENT

MAKE - UP

